Pechanga Signature Great Oak Massage

The Great Oak, known as Wi'áašal by Pechanga people, is recognized as the largest naturally grown indigenous coast live oak, and at more than 1,000 years old, is also one of the oldest in the Western United States. The tree symbolizes strength. The Great Oak Massage works to restore well-being and strength into worn muscles, tired joints, and promotes overall healing. The treatment begins with the gentle practice of a few deep breathing techniques. The Tree of Life botanical essential oil diffuses through the treatment room as the provider applies Himalayan stones to the guest's back to begin the massage. Stress further slips away as Tree of Life massage oil is worked into your tense neck, back, legs and feet. To get you back on your feet with abundant energy following your massage, the Great Oak Massage concludes with a Rosemary Mint Reflexology foot massage.
